

Agriculture Federal Credit Union / Washington, DC

9,950 sf

- /Space planning
- /Design development
- /Furniture selection, specification, & procurement
- /Construction documents
- /Contract administration

The credit union is located on a lower level in the South Building of USDA Headquarters. The space had not been updated in several years, so the project included renovation of all spaces (teller stations, customer service area, conference room, pantry, and general work area), fire/life safety upgrades, modernization of the lighting and power systems, and new furniture. A small teller area, easily accessible to the public, was also designed on the first floor of the building outside the security stations.

The project was a renovation-in-place with the credit union operating throughout the design-build process. Construction occurred in three phases.

