Upon entering the elevator lobby outside Uniwest's space, visitors are met by a 10-foot high ceiling and full-height wood walls with bisecting glass panels. The clean, crisp palette of dark chocolate wengé wood, creamy white stone, and minimal accents of gentle, soothing blue immediately invoke a feeling of tranquility and clarity. The walls of the corridor leading from the reception area to the main conference room have dark wengé pilasters that serve as the framework to proudly display Uniwest's projects. The oval-shaped conference room has one exterior glass wall and one interior canted glass wall.
